ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Acknowledgements to significant contributors or supporting agencies, if any, should appear before references. All contributors who do not meet the criteria for authorship should be listed in the Acknowledgements section. Examples of those who might be acknowledged include, for example, a person who provided purely technical help or writing assistance.

Where the agency supported the research, authors should have a funding acknowledgement in the form of a sentence as follows:

This paper is a result of a research project under the code 179015 (Challenges and Prospects of Structural Changes in Serbia: Strategic Directions for Economic Development and Harmonization with EU Requirements) financed by the Ministry of Science and Technological Development of the Republic of Serbia.

REFERENCES

At the end of the paper, put the list of the used references. The references should be typed in alphabetical order, justified, size 10 pt, hanging 0,4 pt and following the APA (American Psychological Association) reference style.

It is generally encouraged for authors to use adequate literature whenever possible, ideally articles from prestigious indexed journals like JCR list, and references should, whenever possible, encompass current discoveries spanning the previous 2-5 years. A typical article should have 25 to 40 references.

Quotation in the text should be written according to the following instructions: Author's last name, year of publication. Example: (Smith, Miller and Anderson, 2015).

We encourage authors to include DOI numbers and links to publications whenever possible.
